Valério Arcary is a history professor at IFSP (Federal Institute of São Paulo) since 1988. He received a PhD at USP (University of São Paulo) in 2000 with Dangerous corners of history, revolutionary situations in Marxist perspective. Author of O martelo da história (The hammer of history) 2014, among other books.

Dennis Badeen received his PhD from York University, Toronto, Canada, in Social and Political Thought and is currently a Marie Curie International Fellow with the Global Sustainability Institute at Anglia Ruskin University, Cambridge, UK. His research interests include: history of economic thought, methodology of heterodox and mainstream economics, Marxist political economy and philosophy, ecological economics and sociopolitical responses to climate change (with an emphasis on renewable energy and energy transitions). He has published articles in the Journal of Business Ethics, International Journal for Pluralism and Economics Education, Capital and Class, among others.

Riccardo Bellofiore is professor of Political Economy at the University of Bergamo (Italy). His research interests include capitalist contemporary economy, endogenous monetary approaches, Marxian theory and the philosophy of economics. Among his recent publications are: Crisis Theory and the Great Recession: A Personal Journey, from Marx to Minsky (Research in Political Economy, 2011); Lost in Translation: Once Again on the Marx–Hegel Connection (in Marx’s Capital and Hegel’s Logic: A Reexamination, edited by Fred Moseley and Tony Smith for Brill); Chrysalis and Butterfly, Ghost and Vampire. Marx’s Capital as the ‘Gothic’ Critical Political Economy of Zombie Capitalism’ (in Returns of Marxism. Marxist Theory in a Time of Crisis, edited by Sara Farris for Haymarket Books). His last books are In Marx’s Laboratory. Critical Interpretations of the Grundrisse (co-edited with Guido Starosta and Peter Thomas for Brill, 2013); The Great Recession and the Contradictions of Contemporary Capitalism (co-edited with Giovanna Vertova for Edward Elgar, 2014); Towards a New Understanding of Piero Sraffa. Insights from Archival Research (co-edited with Scott Carter for Palgrave Macmillan, 2014); and The Legacy of Rosa Luxemburg. Oskar Lange and Michał Kalecki (two volumes in honour of Tadeusz Kowalski: co-edited with Ewa Kariozki and Jan Toporkowski, published by Palgrave Macmillan, 2014).

Ivan Boldyrev, philosopher and historian of ideas, is currently a research fellow at the University Witten Herdecke, visiting scholar at Humboldt University (Berlin), and associate professor at Higher School of Economics (Moscow). His research interests include politics of philosophical texts and philosophy of history. He also published widely on history of economic knowledge. Among the recent publications are Ernst Bloch and His Contemporaries: Locating Utopian Messianism (Bloomsbury, 2014) and (with Carsten Herrmann-Pillath) Hegel, Institutions and Economics: Performing the Social (Routledge, 2014). His current project is a study of dialectical imagery in Hegel’s Phenomenology of Spirit.

Campbell Jones is Associate Professor of Sociology at the University of Auckland and a Researcher at the think tank Economic and Social Research Aotearoa (ESRA).

Kojin Karatani is one of the most influential contemporary Japanese intellectuals. After obtaining BA in economics from University of Tokyo, he made a sensational debut as a critical thinker. Lange has published over dozens of books since then, covering varieties of fields, providing most original and synthetic theories. Among them the following are translated into English: Origins of Japanese Literature (Duke), Architecture as Metaphor in Transcultural Kant and Marx (MIT), History and Repulsion (Columbia UP), and Structure of World History (Duke). Origines de Capitalist Production, by E. Gellner, Marx, and the Frankfurt School. With Jeanne Schuler, he is completing a book of essays entitled False Moves: Basic Research with Critique, it is a study of the ways in which dualisms between the subjective and the objective breed skepticism.

David Pavon-Cuéllar is Professor of Marxism, Critical Psychology and Lacanian Psychoanalysis at the State University of Michoacán (Universidad Michoacana de San Nicolás de Hidalgo, Morelia, Mexico). He has taught at the Universities of Paris 8, Porto, Chile, Vale do Rio dos Sinos, Queretaro, Tianjing and others. He obtained his PhD in Philosophy from the University of Rouen, and a PhD in Psychology from the University of Rouen. He is the author of Marxisme Lacanien (Paris, Psychophores, 2009), From the Conscious Interior to an Exterior, Unconscious: Lacan, Discourse Analysis and Social Psychology (London, Karnac, 2007), and La politique de marxisme lacaniano (Mexico, Paradiso, 2014), and Marxism and Psychoanalysis. In or Against Capitalist Production (London, Routledge, 2017, forthcoming). He co-edited, with Ian Parker, Lacan, Discourse Event: New Psychoanalytic Approaches to Marx, Indeterminacy (London & New York, Routledge, 2013), and recently, with Nadir Lara, De la Pulsión de Muerte a la Represión de Estado: Marxismo y Psicoanálisis ante la Violencia Estructural del Capitalismo (Mexico, Porrúa, 2016). He belongs to the Editorial Board of Annual Review of Critical Psychology, Theory and Practice: International, Theory and Critica de la Psicología, and Revista Marxistas: Educación, Política y Sociedad.

Moishe Postone teaches history and social theory at the University of Chicago, having received his PhD in 1986 from the J.W.Goethe-Universität in Frankfurt, under the supervision of firing Fethiker. He has published extensively on Marx — Time, Labor, and Social Domination — as well as on Critical Theory, problems of antirealism, and contemporary historical transformations.

Jason Read is Associate Professor of Philosophy at the University of Southern Maine. He teaches courses in the history of political philosophy, political philosophy as social theory, the politics of work, and the philosophy of film. He is the author of The马克思與康德: On the Brethren of the Absolute and the Prehistory of the Present (SUNY 2003) and The Politics of Translated Surplus: Haymarket 2015/16) as well as articles on Althusser, Deleuze, Spinoza, Hegel, Negri, and The Wire. He blogs at www.unemployednegativism.com.

Frank Smeecker is a PhD candidate studying Continental Philosophy at Duquesne University.

Massimiliano Tomba (Ph.D. in Political Philosophy at the University of Pisa) is professor in Political Philosophy at the University of Padova. He has published several papers on the political philosophy of Kant, Hegel, the post-hegelianians, Marx and Walter Benjamin, among them Krise und Krise bei: Bruno Bauer, Kategorien des Politischen im nachhegelschen Denken, Frankfurt am Main, Kategorien der politischen Kant: benjamin: la possibilità della giustizia, Macerata, Quadibot, 2010, Marx's Thoughts, Classics, Leiden, Brill, 2013. He is currently fellow at the Institute for Advanced Study in Princeton where is working on a PhD project on Insurgent Universality.

Yuan Yao is a software developer by trade and a member of the Circle of Studies on Idea and Ideology. He is co-author of the book Hegel, Lacan, Žižek (Atropos Press, 2013) and is currently doing research for a book on Badiou.

Slavoj Žižek is a senior researcher at the Institute for Sociology and Philosophy, University of Ljubljana, International Director of the Birkbeck Institute, The Humanities, and Professor of Philosophy and Psychoanalysis at the European Graduate School. His latest publications include Less Than Nothing: Hegel and the Shadow of Dialectical Materialism (2012), Absolute Return (2014), Disparities (2016).